Senate panel rejects proposed Rs2.5/litre Carbon Levy on petroleum: (Economy: Neutral)

Pakistan's Senate Standing Committee on Finance has rejected a government proposal to impose a Rs2.5 per liter carbon levy on petroleum products, dealing a blow to fiscal plans aimed at expanding non-tax revenues. With the Senate panel's rejection, the proposal now faces political and procedural uncertainty, even as the government looks to meet fiscal targets and climate-linked funding goals under international frameworks. The Finance Ministry has not yet indicated whether it plans to revise, defer, or reintroduce the levy in another form during the ongoing budget approval process.
